

Spring 1-15-2011

ENG 2009G-003: Literature and Human Values: Love, Hate, Obsession

R Beebe

Eastern Illinois University

Follow this and additional works at: http://thekeep.eiu.edu/english_syllabi_spring2011

Part of the English Language and Literature Commons

Recommended Citation

Beebe, R, "ENG 2009G-003: Literature and Human Values: Love, Hate, Obsession" (2011). Spring 2011. 57.
http://thekeep.eiu.edu/english_syllabi_spring2011/57

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the 2011 at The Keep. It has been accepted for inclusion in Spring 2011 by an authorized administrator of The Keep. For more information, please contact tabruns@eiu.edu.

2009G-003

English 2009G.003 ~ Literature and Human Values:
Love, Hate, Obsession

T,Thur 12:30-1:45

Prof. R. Beebe
Coleman Hall 3841
581-2428 / rlbeebe@eiu.edu

Office Hours: Spring 2011
~~T, Thurs 11:00-12:30 + 2:00-3:30~~
~~W 9-10:30 & by appt.~~
W 9:00-10:30

Texts~

- J. G. Ballard, Crash. 1973.
- Tim O'Brien, The Things They Carried. 1990.
- Art Spiegelman, Maus: A Survivor's Tale, vols. 1 and 2. 1986; 1991.
- Katherine Dunn, Geek Love. 1989.
- Bret Easton Ellis, American Psycho. 1991.
- Other readings distributed as handouts or as e-text

Course Description~

According to the EIU Catalog, English 2009G (Literature and Human Values) is a "study of some of the universal, recurring issues facing the individual, as they are dealt with in a selection of literary texts from diverse cultures." In this section of the course—titled "Love, Hate, Obsession"—we will investigate how these concepts are related in complex, dynamic ways, and how these concepts provide the basis for some of the most challenging and provocative stories and human events. In short, we'll be investigating the extreme, and we'll do so in short stories, novels, non-fiction, and film.

More than anything, this course seeks to improve your analytical/critical writing and speaking skills. We will be reading a great deal, and I want you to consider this course as an opportunity to enjoy some terrific storytelling (fiction and non-fiction) as we discuss how love, hate, and obsession influence the development of the modern human drama.

But I also expect you to be prepared to discuss the material in depth and with some sophistication. To this end, I'm putting a high priority on your participation and your ability to facilitate and engage in informed conversation, which you will see reflected in the course requirements and our day-to-day activities.

Requirements~

Your final grade will be determined by your performance on the following items:

- | | |
|--|-----|
| • Response Papers (informal writing) & Reading Quizzes | 15% |
| • Two Formal Papers (approx. 4-6 pages; @ 20%) | 40% |
| • Final Exam | 15% |
| • Reading Journal (due at midterm & end of semester) | 15% |
| • Participation in class discussions | 15% |

Attendance~

Since this is a discussion-oriented course, your attendance and participation are key components in the overall success of this class. Therefore, you need to attend each class. I will allow two absences (or personal days); however, you will lose 5% of your final grade for every unexcused absence after that. For more than five unexcused absences, you will receive an automatic F for the course. You are responsible for documenting and verifying excused absences, which you must do with me in person (not via email).

Formal Papers~

For the two formal papers, I will hand out an assignment sheet with writing prompt, options, and due date. You will need to follow conventional standards for academic papers in regard to format and documentation. (More on this at a later date.) In addition, you have until 4.00 p.m. on the due date to turn the paper in to me (either in my office or mailbox), which should allow you time to complete last minute revisions or proofreading – in other words, you need to be in class on these days. Please do not email me your papers unless you receive prior approval.

Informal Writing (Response Papers)~

You will be writing frequent informal responses – both in class and outside of class – which I use as a way to prompt discussion as well as a way to gauge your understanding of the reading. While these writings are relatively informal in nature, I still expect them to be completed with some care. I will evaluate these with a plus, check, or minus.

Plagiarism~

I enforce the English Department Statement on Plagiarism: “Any teacher who discovers an act of plagiarism – the appropriation or imitation of the language, idea, and/or thoughts of another author, and representation of them as one’s own original work – has the right and the responsibility to impose upon the guilty student an appropriate penalty, up to and including immediate assignment of a grade of F for the course, and to report the incident to the Office of Student Standards.”

Classroom Etiquette~

You’re welcome to bring your notebook computer to class. However, I ask that you observe common rules of etiquette and decorum when you use it. In brief, you may use it to take notes or complete an in-class writing activity. You may not use it for anything not directly related to class work.

* Please turn off (or mute) cell phones, and, out of respect for the class and the integrity of class activities, please refrain from text messaging during.

Electronic Writing Portfolio~

English 2009G is a writing-intensive course, which means that you may use papers from this course for your EWP requirements. I’ll be happy to assist you with this requirement. I ask only that you complete this activity at least two weeks before the course ending date. Contact the Center for Academic Support and Achievement if you have any questions about the EWP (581-6056) or visit their website at <http://www.eiu.edu/~assess/ewpmain.php>

Students with Disabilities~

If you have a documented disability and need special assistance, please contact the Office of Disability Services (581-6583) for consultation.